“ Mr. Williams, I will miss you. You always had a smile on your face when you would greet me, or tell a silly joke to make me laugh. You are an honorable man. I have had the utmost respect for you for 54 years. Okay, maybe when I was two I didn't quite know what respect was, but as I grew up, I always looked up to you. And not just because you were taller than me, but because you were kind, patient, and friendly. I was always welcomed into your immaculate home, (you had the best lawn in the neighborhood), as well as your church. Maybe you weren't always pleased that Pam and I would be disruptive in church, giggling behind the hymn book, but you were still nice even when you had to be firm. You, as well as Pam, have brought me closer to the Lord. You are an exemplary man who has most certainly made an impression in my life. You are loved; You are blessed; and You will be missed. May you be at peace in the house of the lord!
